STAMP THIEVES IN THE TOILS

Government is Defrauded of Many Millions a Year by Brokers

Washington, Jan. 23.—Illegal trafficking in the country over in stolen postage stamps aggregating several millions of dollars annually has just been disclosed by postoffice inspectors whose investigations were reported today by postmaster general Hitchcock.

Through confessions secured by the inspectors from some of the brokers whose operations were investigated it was learned that stamps of all classes and denominations stolen by burglars from post offices and embezzled by employees from great bushy as houses were purchased and resold by brokers and manufacturing establishments at prices far below their face value.

The postal laws make it a crime punishable by imprisonment to sell any stamp issued by the government for less than its face value. Investigations disclosed the fact that in addition to selling the stamps for less than they have been purchased from the government, the brokers knew that the stamps had been stolen when they purchased them. Inquiries show that brokers in some instances entered into a conspiracy with employees of business houses to buy at prices agreed upon all the stamps the clerks could steal from their employers.

The first of a series of indictments resulting from the investigations, was handed down sealed in New York City yesterday. The men included were Richard Fredericks, Irving Sevel and John Frank, who were placed under arrest late today in that city. Dist. Attorney Whitman has informed the postoffice department that other indictments will follow.

MAROTTA JURY UNABLE TO AGREE

So Report to Judge Pike this Morn- ing After Being Out all Night

The case of Charles Marotta, of this city, charged with keeping a disorderly house, occupied the entire day's session of the superior court at Exeter on Thursday. Marotta was represented by Attorney John O'Neill of Manchester.

City Marshal Michael Hurley when called to the stand told that he was at Marotta's place when the Water street people were ordered out of the city and that he saw two girls in the parlor with their hats and street clothes on, apparently ready to leave the city.

Jules Dougherty, day patrolman, testified that he frequently saw sailors and soldiers and all classes of people going to and coming from the place, and some of them were ones whom he had known on Water street. He was asked if beer was sold at the place, and he replied that it was 1 per cent. of the beer. Whereupon he was again asked what he did when he learned that beer of that sort was sold, and replied that he reported to his superior officer, then Marshal Botwin. "What happened then?" he was asked. "Why the marshal said that he knew it was 1 per cent. beer," was the answer.

Frank West, night patrolman, testified that he frequently saw people going to and coming from the place.

Marotta, the defendant, himself took the stand in defense and told that he had been a resident of the United States twenty-one years, coming here from Naples, Italy, and had been in Portsmouth for about ten years. He said that he never sold any intoxicating liquors or kept any girls there.

There were sailors, soldiers and all classes of people came to the restaurant, but never allowed any disturbances, also that he sold this beer, and that the police knew it. Upon cross-examination by Attorney General Tuttle he said that he had seven rooms upstairs, furnished with beds, carpets and chairs, also that in some rooms there were two beds.

Charles W. Gray, superintendent of the Consolidated Coal company, which does business near the house in question, was called upon, and he testified that he frequently went into Marotta's place for meals, and that he never saw anything disorderly.

Herbert C. Prime, Gray's partner in business, also testified about the same as Gray, that he never saw anything disorderly at the place.

Thomas W. Mullen, a stevedore at the coal wharf, Lawrence H. Bowlin of Exeter, Me., an employee of the Coal company; Frank Lougee, also of the company; and Thomas F. Malloy, a bartender for Joseph Sacco, who conducts a saloon near Marotta's restaurant, and who took meals there, all testified that they never saw anything disorderly at the Marotta place.

The arguments in the Marotta case were made in the afternoon. Mr. O'Neill spoke for an hour and severely attacked the evidence of the detectives by asking the jury how they could believe men coming into the court as perfect strangers and knowing nothing of their character. He said that Marotta had just as much right to conduct a restaurant and have the patronage of the Water street residents as that of the best citizens of the city. He spoke highly of the Portsmouth police force by saying that if there had been any disturbance they would have been there to quell it, and from the fact that the officers saw none was good evidence that there had been none.

After a short recess Attorney General Tuttle began his argument to the jury. He said that Marotta had established a restaurant equipped with rooms, and that the kind of people who went for the most part were sailors, soldiers and fast women. That he had liquor for them to drink if they wanted it, and every arrangement for their entertainment. He called the attention to the fact that the defendant said that if they got noisy he had them put out. In regard to the time he said that the sailors would sooner drink sea water than that sort of beer. He also argued that they were there drinking and thus violating the laws of the state just as much as if they had been using guns and knives. After the charge to the jury by Judge Pike, which was short, the case went to the jury at 5 o'clock.

The jury after being out all night reported at 10:30 o'clock this morning that they were unable to agree and were discharged. Marotta furnished new bail and left the court room.

NOTES OF THE DIAMOND

Fred C. Smith is young pitcher who appeared in the Michigan state league last year has sent his signed contract to Secretary Foster of the Giants. Low Hilde of the Cubs was considerably gashed and bruised by being thrown from a motor cycle last week. He and Bill Hinchman were speeding on the Daytona beach. The former's machine struck a soft spot and the player was catapulted out on the beach.

Another possible tenant of the first base for Detroit is Hildebrand, the catcher who comes from Jersey City. Hildebrand, Crawford, Galties, and Morley are others in the running for the job. Jim Thorpe may be the champion all-around athlete, but Wilbert Robinson is the champion all-around ball player.

When Roger Bresnahan comes on Robinson Field with the Cubs, a St. Louis fan says, "we'll give Roger one of the oldest presents he ever got—something big, probably a diamond. Robinson of Grand Mogul?"

Ed Heulbach says he is in mid-season form. There are cases of pitchers having been knocked out of the box in mid-season.

A startling rumor of shipwreck and rescue in the height of the storm on Thursday afternoon proved to have small basis. In fact soon after noon the Captain of the Isles of Shoals Life-Saving Station left Portsmouth in the large motor life boat of the station having on board his mother as passenger but before reaching whales-back the combination of wind, sea, and rain proved too much for the lady's courage and she was landed at the Wood Island Station, the boat then proceeded to the Shoals. From Wood Island Captain Hall transferred the lady to Kittery Point in a dory and she returned to Portsmouth by rail. As pulling back to Wood Island in the teeth of the south east gale was too strenuous an undertaking, the dory was left in Frisbee's dock, and the man walked back to the station by way of Gerfish Island.

DON'T SCOLD CROSS, IRRITABLE CHILDREN

See if Tongue is Coarser, Stomach Sour and Bowels Waste-Clogged

Children dearly love to take delicious Syrup of Figs and nothing else cleans and regulates their tender little stomachs and 30 feet of bowels so promptly and thoroughly.

Children get bilious and constipated just like grown ups. Then they get sick, the tongue is coated, stomach sour, and breath bad; they don't eat or rest well; they become feverish, cross, irritable, and don't want to play. Listen Mothers—for your child's sake don't force the little one to swallow nauseating castor oil, violent cathartics or harsh irritants like Calomel Pills. A teaspoonful of Syrup of Figs will have your child happy and smiling again in just a few hours. Syrup of Figs will gently clean, sweeten, and regulate the stomach, make the liver active and move on and out of the bowels all the constipated matter, the sour bile, the foul clogged up waste and poisons without causing cramps or griping.

With Syrup of Figs you are not dragging or injuring your children. Being composed entirely of delicious figs, senna and aromatics it cannot be harmful. Full directions for children of all ages and for grown ups plainly printed on the package.

Ask your druggist for the full name "Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna" prepared by the California Fig Syrup Co. This is the delicious tasting genuine old reliable. Refuse anything else offered.

CITY COUNCIL HELD
A SHORT SESSIONAsst. Engineer Akerman Resigns
From the Fire Department--Annual Reports Ready--Fire Department Needs.

A meeting of the Mayor and Council was held on Thursday evening with very little business outside of the annual reports to attend to.

Joseph W. Akerman assistant engineer of the fire department, caused a surprise when he handed in his resignation as assistant engineer to take effect at once. The Council were unwilling to act and the resignation will lay on the table till the next meeting.

The claim of Mrs. Mary Flynn for damages, referred to the last city government and ordered settled by the payment of half of the plumbers bill, was rejected by Mrs. Flynn and the matter was referred to the City Solicitor to report.

A back tax bill of the estate of Nathan Wood dating back to 1888 amounting with interest to $178.83 was referred to the Finance committee to report.

The bonds of the city treasurer and tax collector both for $50,000 were approved and filed.

There were only a few petitions, Alexander Frazier was granted permission to open Lincoln avenue to repair a drain, C. H. Holmes to enter a house on Hanover street in the sewer. The Rockingham Light and Power company were granted a pole location on Boyd road.

A petition of W. A. Robinson and others for an electric light on the corner of Clinton and Thornton street was referred to the committee on street lighting to report.

Recommendations for the Fire Department.

Chairman Duncan for the committee on Fire Department made several recommendations in regards to the fire apparatus as a result of an investigation by the Committee with the Board of Engineers. The recommendations included the purchase of 2000 feet of hose, the overhauling and new boilers for steamers No. 3 and 2, both of these boilers having been in use for twenty odd years. The overhauling and painting of the No. 2 truck and the Hook and Ladder and the installation of a self starter, electric lighting and pressure fire pump on the new auto chemical. The report also called attention to the fact that a new central fire station was very much needed.

There was some difference of opinion as to what should be done with the report, but it was finally accepted and later referred to the finance committee.

Chief Engineer W. F. Woods submitted a communication to the Council on the same line as that of the committee, in which he made the same recommendations as the committee with the addition that he thought the hook and ladder truck should be disposed of and an auto truck provided. He stated that the apparatus was in a bad shape and much repairs were needed. The hydrant system he complained was below that of other cities the pressure not being more than half as much as in many cities so that the apparatus had to be depended upon more than ever.

Gerald B. Cullen was elected lot layer. William Smith, George R. Palfrey and Harry B. Palfrey were elected additional weighers. The annual reports of the librarian Miss Hannah G. Fernald and Charles A. Hazlett, treasurer of the Public Library, were received and ordered printed.

The annual report of the City Solicitor for the year 1912 was made by Samuel W. Emery and in it he took occasion to criticize the Mayor. He reported the case of Winn vs City settled but Councilman Adams, stated that it was called on the docket at the present term of court and on his motion it was referred to the present City Solicitor to report on the facts.

The annual report of Superintendent of schools James N. Pringle as the report of the Board of Instruction was accepted and ordered printed.

Two resolutions authorizing the City Clerk to sign all licenses in the name of the Council and to renew all licenses now running were passed.

Dr. Charles E. Johnston was appointed a member of the Board of Examiners of Plumbers by Mayor Badger and the appointment was confirmed.

The Auditors report of bills amounting to $2,035.42 was accepted and the bills ordered paid.

The City Clerk was instructed to notify the heads of the departments to present their estimates for the annual budget by the first of February to the Finance committee.

Adjourned for one month.

Shall Chicago Legalize Hell?

An astounding "legal opinion" was submitted, on October 24, by the Assistant Corporation Counsel of Chicago to the aldermanic committee recently appointed to investigate vice conditions in that city. The document suggests a plan whereby the second city of the United States may circumvent the laws of its state and establish officially a "segregated district" for prostitution. Here are three paragraphs from this plan for an ordinance to permit crime:

"There are at present a number of laws on the statute books (of the state) making the social evil in question a crime. So long, therefore, as those laws continue in force no municipality could pass an ordinance that could in any wise legalize vice. We are, however, of the opinion, notwithstanding the existence of the laws referred to, that the city might make it an offense to indulge in certain practices except in certain localities which would be prescribed by ordinance, irrespective of the fact that the said statute branded the identical practices as a crime and punished them accordingly.

"In fact, we have in mind a case decided by the Supreme Court of this state, where an ordinance made it an offense to gamble on horse races except in certain defined localities. It was contended that the ordinance was invalid because it conflicted with the state law on the subject and tended to make legitimate that which the statute had branded illegitimate.

"The Supreme Court held that the ordinance did not legalize gambling in the localities mentioned in the ordinance, and that it only imposed a penalty in addition to that provided by the statute. If the statutory offense were committed in places other than those designated in the ordinance, that gambling on horse races in the defined localities was a statutory offense notwithstanding the ordinance, but that gambling on horse races outside of the places designated by the ordinance was a violation of both statute and ordinance."

It is scarcely conceivable that such an attempt practically to license the social evil in certain sections of Chicago will actually be recommended by the aldermanic committee; or that, if recommended, the proposed ordinance will be enacted by the City Council; or that, if enacted, the people of Chicago would long permit any such outrageous measure to disgrace their statute books. But the very proposal is enough to stir the wrath of every decent citizen of Illinois—and of the United States, for that matter.

Suppose that, in any city, leaders in crime should suggest the setting apart of a district wherein murder or theft might be practiced openly—a district to which murderers and thieves might travel with safety from other parts of the city, and from which they might return unmolested to their eminently respectable homes. Would such a proposition be given serious consideration by the legal department of any municipality in the land, or by the vice committee of any city council? And yet, in this second decade of the twentieth century, a plan for murdering the bodies and stealing the souls of women, under municipal authority and in acknowledged violation of the laws of the state and of God, is actually considered a debatable subject in the city of Chicago!

Is the answer made that the social evil cannot be eradicated by legislation? Neither can other forms of murder or theft; but is that any argument for attempting to legitimize them?

Is it said that the vicious women should be segregated lest they contaminate the pure women? Will the advocates of the plan recommend also the segregation of the vicious men who patronize these resorts? Are the "vicious" the women only—most of them led astray originally through ignorance or man-made poverty, if not by actual force? Shall these be quarantined, and the men for whose purposes they are maintained be permitted to wander at large, carrying throughout the city and nation the germs of diseases, moral and physical, the most loathsome known to man? Under such a plan how is vice "segregated"?

Chicago has earned an enviable reputation for its system of public playgrounds. The child in Chicago who has never enjoyed the benefits of these places of healthful recreation, or who does not at least know the location of one of them, would be hard to find. Were the city to establish official "red light" districts, how could these same children, when approaching maturity, be prevented from accepting them also as properly sanctioned places of recreation?

Is official encouragement of prostitution really desired by a majority of the people in any American city? If not, let them oppose with their utmost vigor either the establishment or continued maintenance of a protected Hell.—From the American City.

Country and Money.

The growth of the country is rapid. The more serious question is whether the growth is a wholesome one, or whether our population has in it vast sections of people not assimilated in the whole mass. And joined with it is the other question whether the money of the country is distributed in the best way, the most wholesome way for the whole people. Bigness is not always greatness, and no man who faces seriously the real problems of the United States will be inclined to boast. He will rather hope that he may play his part well in helping society to the right solution of its admitted difficulties.—Gloucester Times.

The Duke de Talleyrand and His Little Son, Prince De Sagan, Here to Attend Gould-Shepard Wedding.

Notable arrivals from abroad recently were the Duke and Duchess de Talleyrand, who came to attend the wedding of Miss Helen Gould, sister of the duchess. The pair brought their little three-year-old son, the Prince de Sagan, whose full name is Howard Charles Maurice Pierre Jason. The duchess was formerly Miss Anna Gould and later the wife of Count Roul de Castellane. Her present husband was formerly Prince Helle de Sagan, by which title he is better known in this country. He obtained the title of duke on the death of his father in 1910. Little Prince de Sagan is a handsome boy and has the doting affection of both parents. He is blue-eyed and has yellow curly hair and an extremely upright manner of walking. He wore a gray astrakhan coat and turban cap. The picture was taken of the duke and his little son on their arrival at New York. They will go home soon.

SAVED A LIFE.

Miss Mae Stimpson Displays Rare Presence of Mind.

Miss Mae Stimpson of Biddeford, Me., who frequently substitutes in the telegraph office at the Portsmouth depot saved the life of an unknown man yesterday at the Salmon Falls depot, where she is relieving the regular telegraph operator.

Just before the afternoon express from Boston was due, Miss Stimpson noticed an intoxicated stranger reeling about the railroad station platform and quickly apprehended his danger. No sooner had she started from her office to get assistance when the express came in sight about 100 yards south of the station and at the time the drunken man fell toward the tracks, Miss Stimpson rose to the emergency and quickly grabbed the imperiled person and by a

MISTAKEN IDENTITY.

Senator Parsons of This City Taken for Ex-Governor Quimby.

Roundabout in the Rochester Courier is responsible for the following.

Up at the Governor's reception the other evening, as one after another came and looked into the mayor's office at the guests assembled there, they would exclaim: "Is that ex-Governor Quimby there?" The individual however proved to be no other than Senator John Parsons of Portsmouth, a native of Rochester descended of one of our oldest and best known families. His resemblance to the former Governor is marked, although he is a younger man, as one sees at a second glance. But he is certainly a perfect image of Governor Quimby, with a few years taken from him. Senator Parsons is also like the Laconia man of most pleasing address and personality and deservedly popular wherever he is known.

Former City Marshal Thomas Entwistle was a visitor in Exeter on Thursday.

HOSTILE INFLUENCES.

Connecticut Governor Thinks Mellen Too Much "Muck-raked."

South Manchester, Conn., Jan. 23.—(Special.) Tonight, before the annual banquet of the local Business Men's Association, Gov. Simon E. Baldwin said there was "too much muckraking" going on just now regarding President Mellen of the N. Y. N. H. and H. R. R. Co.

He declared: "It looks to me as if influences hostile to the trade to New England were moving in underground currents to undermine or dismember New England's railroad system, and as if many a New Englander has been carried away by what they mean. They mean, it seems to me, to beset New England, whether they do or do not make for gain to New York and other states."

"I believe the prosperity of New England makes for the prosperity of the whole country; but I believe also there are those who do not think so, and would lessen, if they could, our prosperity in the hope of increasing their own."

FRIENDLY TO NEW HAVEN ROAD

Governor Haines Will Not Attend Conference of Governors.

August, Me., Jan. 23.—Gov. Haines will be unable to attend the conference of New England governors to be held in Boston next Saturday for the discussion of railroad matters. The governor is seriously ill and was unable to leave his home in Waterville today.

Aside from the Governor's illness, it is certain that he feels less concern at this time about the general railroad problems of New England than he does regarding the strike troubles in Aroostook county.

The latter matter is engaging the attention of the Governor and other state officials to the exclusion of nearly everything else. Until the strike is settled Gov. Haines will not discuss other branches of the railroad subject.

It is the consensus of opinion at the State House that the Bangor & Aroostook road will eventually, and perhaps soon, come into the control of either the Boston & Maine or the Canadian Pacific companies.

Officials, business men and manufacturers generally favor the absorption of the troubled line by the Boston & Maine. It is certain that any attempt by the Canadian lines to secure control would be fought by the state.

Already the Boston & Maine controls the Maine Central, which threatens to become affected by the strike. It is felt that a logical development of the Boston & Maine demands the taking over of the Aroostook, and steps to that end are understood to be underway. President Todd is a graduate of the New Haven and it is generally believed that he owes his appointment to President Mellen. There is a possibility that Carl E. Milliken, president of the Maine Senate, will represent Gov. Haines at the Boston conference. Senator Milliken leaves for Boston tomorrow and will remain there over Sunday. Up to a late hour tonight he had received no request from the Governor to attend the conference, however.

Maine has no acute railroad problem other than that presented by the Bangor & Aroostook strike. There is little regret felt here by public men over the abandonment of the Southern New England construction work. The projected lines to Boston and Providence were regarded as threatening the export business of Portland, which serves as the winter port for Canadian business.

On the other hand, there is general satisfaction with the service rendered by the Boston & Maine under the New Haven management. During the present legislative session a bill will doubtless be enacted creating a public utilities commission. This has no special relation to the railroads, although it will include them with all other public service corporations in its scope.

One broker advertised by means of a sign, carried through the New York financial district during the noon hour that he purchased printed uncanceled post cards. This resulted it is said in many office boys stealing cards from their employers and selling them to him for 35 cents a hundred. The printed portion of the cards then was skillfully covered by the broker with a piece of thin paper and the cards resold.

The culpable broker according to his admission to the inspectors, sold during the last two years more than 2,000,000 postcard cards; many of which were stolen by boys.

The department redeems postal cards from original purchasers at 75 per cent of their face value. A few weeks ago a member of congress and a former deputy commissioner of police of New York City requested the third assistant postmaster general to redeem over a million cards for a constituent of the congressman. Inquiry by inspectors developed the fact that the cards were the property of a stamp broker, whose business is declared by the department officials to be clearly illegitimate.

NEW NAVY YARD RULES

All Employees Except Common Laborers to Be Under Civil Service Rules.

The new Civil Service regulations governing appointments at the navy yard issued by President Taft last month places all employees except common laborers under the competitive classified Civil Service provisions and will go into effect at the Portsmouth yard July 5. Copies of the complete text of the order were distributed in this city yesterday. The greatest change here is the transfer of the mechanics to the Civil Service.

There are the same methods of application for work, determining a man's qualifications, continuance of the labor boards at each yard, and practically the same machinery to govern furloughs, discharges, etc. There is provision for physical test of men applying for registration as common laborers, stable keepers, teamsters, hod carriers, janitors and boys, grouped as unclassified.

The district secretary of the Civil Service commission is added to the labor board at each yard and it is directed that he shall act as the board's adviser on matters relating to the Civil Service. The clerks at the yard have been under the classified Civil Service system for years.

ANOTHER ONE FOR DRYDEN

Hartford, Conn., Jan. 23, 1913.
Editor Evening Herald, Portsmouth, N. H.

Please allow me space in your paper for the following challenge. I understand that there is a man in your town who calls himself a middleweight wrestler. The man I mean is W. B. Dryden. Now I do not know Dryden, nor have I ever seen him wrestle, but if he is as good as his reputation he most certainly is a wonder. In spite of what I have heard of his wonderful performances on the mat in the past I would like to issue this challenge to him. I am proud to say that I am holder of the Connecticut state championship at the middleweight mark, and am open and ready to defend it against all comers. I am managing my own business and if Dryden will accept this challenge, I will go to Portsmouth or any other town he may mention and wrestle him. Furthermore if Dryden is a middleweight I will wager some good Connecticut coin on the side that I will beat him. Hoping that Dryden will see this challenge and accept it am,

Very Truly Yours,

THE FEBRUARY WOMAN'S HOME COMPANION

An article of interest and great value to women is published in the February Woman's Home Companion. It is an account of the Housewives' League, an organization of 50,000 women, which in two years, has developed to the point where it is actually assisting hundreds of thousands of housewives in the United States to reduce the cost of living. One of its great contentions is that women should study the market reports in the newspapers in order to get information about prices which will enable them to buy intelligently when they come to deal with the tradesmen. The article shows how the plan may be carried out in any town or city in the United States. It also presents a dramatic picture of the origin of the League. Mrs. Julian Heath, a New York woman, had an experience which started her to thinking. Out of this experience grew the league. Here is a story of a woman who started great things.

Many other important articles are included in the February Companion— notably an interview with John Drew, "What I Think of Women," "The Making of a Father"—a true story; "The Upward Flight"—true stories of work love and sacrifices in the sums, and an article showing how a widow woman with $100 capital started a business from which she is able to earn a good income.

Lively fiction is contributed by Georgia Wood Pangborn, Mary Hastings Bradley, Anne Hamilton Donnell, Justin Mills Furman, and Fannie Havelp Lea.

The regular Cooking, Fashion, Home Decoration and Young People's departments are unusually interesting and helpful.

NO INDIGESTION, GAS OR A SOUR STOMACH

"Pape's Diapepsin" Makes Your Stomach Feel Fine in Five Minutes

Wonder what upset your stomach— which portion of the food did the damage—do you? Well, don't bother. If your stomach is in a revolt, if sour, gassy, and upset, and what you just ate has fermented into stubborn lumps, your head dizzy and aches, belch gases and acids, and eructate undigested food, breath foul, tongue coated, just take a little Diapepsin and in five minutes you truly will wonder what became of the indigestion and distress.

Millions of men and women know today that it is needless to have a bad stomach. A little Diapepsin occasionally keeps this delicate organ regulated and they eat their favorite foods without fear.

If your stomach doesn't take care of your food without rebellion, if your food is a damage instead of a help, remember the quickest, surest, most harmless relief is Pape's Diapepsin which costs only 50 cents for a large case at drug stores. Its truly wonderful—it digests food, softens things straight, so gently and easily that it is really astonishing. Please, for your sake don't go on and on with a weak disordered stomach; it is so unnecessary.

BOSTON TO LEAD WORLD IN DRY DOCKS

Boston, Jan. 23.—Boston will have the largest drydock in the world, and not merely the largest in the western hemisphere, as has been previously announced. Plans are being drawn by the engineers of the Port Directors as fast as possible. Today they held a meeting, which lasted from 7.30 until 1, and part of the time was devoted to discussing the huge drydock which will be built in South Boston.

At present the plans call for a dock to be 1250 feet long but if the Port Directors feel that there is another dock in any European port that is longer, they will extend the Boston dock. They mean to have it the biggest in the world. There are several of great size in Europe and large ones are to be constructed. The directors are finding out the exact dimensions of all.

According to the present plans the dock will be 110 feet wide, which is narrower than the first plans, because if the dock is too wide, the engineers reported, there will be a great difficulty in ducking even a large liner because of the great length of the mooring. If the mooring beams have to be made too long they are very hard to handle, not to say dangerous to the vessel that is being docked. If not placed exactly right the beams are apt to punch a hole through the plates of the vessel.

Investigations at the site have proved that there will be a good rock foundation the entire length of the structure with the exception of a few feet at the land end. The rock ledge will also be wide enough so that the massive sides will have this solid foundation except a short space on the south side. Here, it is proposed, to excavate deep enough until rock is found. Plans for diamond drilling are already under way. It has been found that this ledge is mostly slate and no very hard seams have been found, but the nature of these cannot be fully determined until the ledge is uncovered and is not, as is the case now, anywhere from eight to 20 feet below water.

The feeling of the dock will be of granite from the top to about the water line and the rest will be of concrete. Plans have been drawn for an electric pumping plant which will have four engines, each able to pump 100,000 gallons of water a minute. It will take about two hours to empty the dock.

Discussion of the dock was not the only matter that came up at today's meeting of the directors. Several small subcontracts were approved and as the directors have to pass on all materials purchased, quite a number of these items were passed on. Clerk James T. McDonald submitted a report on the coal transportation to the port of Boston. He said that the tonnage for the past year was 5,600,000.

IN THE HOME

Everybody knows that punctuality at mealtimes is a help to good housekeeping. This was difficult to accomplish with six children, especially at breakfast. The following plan helped greatly according to a writer in Good Housekeeping. If a child was late to breakfast he had to go to bed that night as many minutes earlier as he was late in the morning. It claimed that his being late showed that he needed more sleep, if punctual he had extra time to stay up on Saturday night. I think this plan helped me to keep the same kitchen help eleven years.

Nap in Nursery

I have discovered that a large map of the United States hanging in the nursery or where the children can see it is a great educator, writes a contributor to Harper's Bazar. A map of your own state, also showing counties, townships, capitals, etc., will also help the family to know more practical geography than may be studied in books. It is a good idea to consult both maps.

Effective Home Remedy for Tuberculosis

It is a serious matter when the lungs are affected. A cure or to a sanatorium is not only expensive, but it involves separation from home and friends. Some are benefited, but few can afford to go to a sanatorium. There is an effective home remedy. For example: 231 S. Atlantic Ave., Haddonfield, N. J. "I began to improve, and the first week in January, 1906, I resumed my regular occupation, having gained 25 pounds, fully restored to health. My lungs, which had been in a very bad condition, and I cannot praise Eckman's Alternative too highly. I have recommended it to all my friends." (Signed) W. M. TATEM.

Eckman's Alternative is effective in Bronchitis, Asthma, Hay Fever, Throat and Lung Troubles, and in expelling the system. Does not contain poisons, opiates or habit-forming drugs. Ask for booklet telling of recoveries, and write to Eckman Laboratory, Philadelphia, Pa. for more evidence. For sale by all leading druggists.

Arranging a Birthday Party

In arranging a birthday party it is a good idea to carry out the entire plan with the birthday flower and color, and have the zodiac sign as a crest on the invitation. If it is impossible to get real flowers the artificial kind can be used, with plenty of crepe paper for other decorative schemes. Do not put the paper on the table but arrange it in festoons above the table to present a canopy, with drooping flowers and ribbon streamers at each table decoration. Get white flowers and tie with the astral colors.

Don't Hide Knives

In basting work for stitching do not hide away the knives, but put them on the right side of the sewing so that basting threads may be easily removed, says the New Haven Journal Courier. For the same reason never place machine stitching directly on top of a basting, but just outside of it.

Use Crochet Hook

When there is much mending or stockings to be done try repairing those great holes in the man's socks or the knees of children's hose by the aid of the most helpful little implement the crocheter hook, and see how much more quickly the work is done, you will also have a patch which will outwear the stocking, says Needlecraft.

THE FRENCH SARDINE INDUSTRY PARALYZED BY A STRIKE OF OBSTINACY.

On the first day of January 116 of the sardine tinning establishments in Brittany shut down their works, for want of fish to tin. The twenty establishments which remain open will be shut down at an early date, already fixed. The great fishing industry of Brittany is dead, killed by the fishermen themselves, who, attempting to keep up the price of fish, unlawfully kept down the supplies.

The Bretons have been sardine fishermen from time immemorial. The importance of their fishing industry grew with the development of the tinning industry. In 1887 it was estimated that sardine fishing off the oceanic coast of France gave rise, annually, to commercial transactions of the value of a hundred and fifty million francs, and occupied from a hundred and twenty thousand to a hundred and fifty thousand people. About this time competition sprung up, and while the French remained the best, the immense output of cheaper, if inferior, sardines from other countries robbed the French trade of much of its importance.

Scope of the Brittany Industry. About eleven years ago the hauls made by the Breton fishermen began to fall off, and the want of fish, added to the foreign competition, caused a crisis which lasted to the end. In 1903, thirty-seven million kilos and in 1901, 10 million kilos of sardines were tinned in Brittany. In 1902, the quantity tinned in that province fell to 8 million kilos, and the quantity has continued to fall there ever since, while the output of the tinner in every other country rose.

Spain and Portugal place every year from 1,200,000 to 1,500,000 cases on the market (each case contains a hundred tins); Norway, several hundred thousand cases of sardines, called sardines; the United States great quantities of tins of small herrings, called domestic sardines; Japan has also a great tinning industry. Compared with the output of these countries the Breton industry seems insignificant. When in full work the factories of Brittany could turn out no more than 500,000 cases a year. The want of fish has of late reduced their output to 150,000 cases. "It is not even a hospital we are closing, it is a cemetery," said one of the Breton tinner the day the factories shut down.

Fishers Who Won't Materialize.

The gravity of the crisis is due to the fact that the Bretons, masters of a sterile soil, depend largely for their existence on their fisheries. All the industries of Brittany are affected by the sardine trade, including the fishermen fifty thousand people are thrown completely out of work by the closing of the factories; the number of those indirectly affected is far larger.

Still Plenty of Fish.

It is a pretense to say the fish has deserted the Breton coast. At various periods sardines ceased to be found at that coast. Their disappearance was attributed to a hundred different reasons, from deviations of the Gulf stream to the passage of steamships. The fact seems proved that the sardine is a semi-tropical fish which seeks warm, or tepid waters; during the winter it lies on the bed of the ocean, rising towards the surface in search of food when the currents become too cold in late spring, summer, and part of autumn, disappearing into the deep sea even during these periods if cold currents come, or cold winds blow off the land. The Breton fishermen have from time immemorial sought only to take the fish which rise to the surface. Their nets, the famous files bleus, arduous and antiquated engines, dear to them, both from old association and because of their cheapness. Why, the ask, should they pay four hundred francs for a new-fangled machine when they can get a net such as their fathers used for sixty francs? They ignore the fact that their nets wear out rapidly; and that not one, but several nets with different meshes are necessary for them. The old method, persisted in by the Breton fishermen, was having sunk the nets, to cast built of the sea over them, and when the sardines had risen to the bait to raise the nets. By this primitive method, in the phrase of the disgusted tinner, "the caught none but the fish that wanted to be caught"—in other words, those that did not swim away while the net was being drawn up. The small haul obtained with the nets satisfied the majority of the fishermen, who, rejoicing in the high prices of the fish, could not be convinced that their policy in keeping the tinning factories under-supplied was suicidal, or got it believe that it would be more profitable, for them to take large quantities of fish and sell them at a low price.

A Triumph of Prejudice.

The assurances of the manufacturers that busy times at the factories would mean employment for all the women, the fishermen's families did not move the men; and when the fishermen of Saint Guenole and Penmarc made trials with the new engine, drag-nets, and tinning-nets, and made hauls with them, their rivals, the other parts joined against them in a hostile band. Finding that threats and violence did not avail the stubborn majority sought the help of the Government. This the Government, distrustful of the votes of the greater number, readily gave. The new nets were declared illegal, and orders were given to suppress their use. Petitions from the tinner, and from the fishermen who had adopted the new engines, were gravely referred to a commission of hostile fishermen to be reported on, and on the commission reporting unfavorably as to their use, the Government declined to modify the regulations against them. To enforce the prohibitory regulations fishermen participants of the old method of fishing were sworn in as special police, and directed to track their rivals and obtain evidence of their illegal fishing, and the strange sight was seen in the Breton waters of fleets of fishing boats filled with fishermen casting nets, followed by others filled by other fishermen with cast nets, and desired no fish, but occupied themselves, "notebooks in hand," "dressing process verbatim" against their fellows. Now that the industry is killed all will suffer. Those who will suffer first are not the men who did the harm by refusing to take the fish, but those who taking it with the modern engines were prepared to supply the factories and keep the industry alive. On the 14th of this month a hundred and fifty fishermen will be tried at Quimper for the crime of using nets, by which it was demonstrated large quantities of sardines can still be caught in Breton waters.

FINE RESULTS FROM TYPHOID SERUM

Chicago, Jan. 23.—Col. W. B. Bannister of the Medical Corps, U. S. A., in a discussion last night before the Chicago Medical Society on "Serum Treatment and Prevention of Typhoid Fever," said that 50,000,000 typhoid germs in a serum injection is an "infinitesimal dose."

"In the Army we would consider 50,000,000 infinitesimal," he said. "When we vaccinate a man against typhoid we give him an injection of 500,000,000 dead typhoid germs the very first time."

"Of course, we wait until his day's work is nearly finished. But we expect him to be on duty bright and early next morning, and ready for the next dose of at least 1,000,000,000 germs."

"In the last San Antonio, Tex., encampment, when the city was full of typhoid, we had 12,000 men in camp for eight months and only one tight case of typhoid during the time."

AN OPEN WINTER

Boston, Jan. 23.—The remarkably open winter this year is exciting comment, and comparisons between this and the so-called old fashioned winters are numerous.

F. E. Blackford of North Weymouth picked a mess of dandelions for his Sunday dinner Jan. 12. Mr. Pratt the nursery man of East Weymouth, set out several trees Jan. 13; Charles Harrington of East Weymouth reports a rambling rose bush that had sprouted leaves in his yard.

But a book containing a record of the weather from Jan. 1, 1856, to Sept. 1, 1888, compiled by B. F. Hill, a civil engineer and surveyor of Bridgewater tells of the winter of 1825-26, in comparison with which the present winter seems Arctic.

No ice formed at all during that winter, except on shallow pools, and the sun's rays melted it every day. The thermometer at noon of every day was up to 50. There were only 10 occasions when the glass registered below freezing and those were during the night. The sun of the days following thawed out the ground and the frost was out of the ground during some portion of the day all winter long.

Pussy willows budded, trees leaved and wild flowers blossomed, frogs "peeped" as Mr. Hill calls it, Jan. 30 and their song was heard during the rest of the winter.

Some of the farmers planted peas and other vegetables in February, the ground being in suitable condition to receive the seed, and although it seems incredible, yet they sprouted and brought forth early peas in May.

The coldest night in January was the 7th, when the glass went to 23. February's coldest night was the 23d, with the thermometer at 25. The warmest day in January was the 27th, temperature at midday being 73. Feb. 14 was the warmest of the month, 75 degrees above. Snow fell at frequent intervals during the winter, never more than an inch at a time, which soon melted and disappeared under the warm rays of the sun.

Thunder storms abounded and much damage was done by lightning. High winds also made havoc with barns, cornhouses and other outbuildings. The Jopka River, running into the Taunton River, overflowed its banks on several occasions, and bridges were destroyed, the roads torn up and other disasters were frequent.

HAS JUNKET MANIA.

Woodrow Wilson Plans to Visit Canal Zone Next Summer.

Trenton, N. J., Jan. 23.—President Wilson intends to visit the Panama Canal immediately after the extra session of congress adjourns. He told a delegation from Asheville, N. C., who came to offer him a summer home there, that he was not making plans for next summer because he hoped to spend part of it in the canal zone, and could not guess at how long congress would be in session.

The North Carolina callers were headed by National Committeeman Josephus Daniels, who brought photographs of the house which the citizens of Asheville offer the governor and his family. It was in this house that Mr. and Mrs. Wilson spent their honeymoon days. The delegation also visited Princeton, showing Mrs. Wilson the plans and photographs.
